Monarch We Mourn

LATE KING GEORGE V.

Count of Monte Cristo at Elite this Week-end

This is a picture based on the Alexandre Dumas classic—a 19th century story. More than thirty principals and hundreds of extras form the cast which is brought to the screen on an extensive and costly scope. Robert Donat, noted European stage and screen star of "Henry VIII," plays the leading role of Mercedes supported by Elissa Landi.

It is the story of political intrigue, shattered love and life, heartless cruelty and the fantastic discovery of a valuable treasure that enabled Edmond Dantes, as the Count of Monte Cristo, to revenge himself upon and destroy his enemies.

While there is historical fact to the story, it is not a historical romance or drama in the sense of "Rothschild" or "Viva Villa." And while it is a thrilling spectacle it is vastly different from the spectacles as interpreted by the De Mille picture.

Actually it is the story of one man; his sufferings and triumphs; portrayed against the "political and social background of early France."

This picture is worth seeing and is being shown at the Elite on Friday and Saturday of this week, with usual Saturday matinee.

LOCAL LADIES LOSE TO EDGEMONT CURLEERS

On Thursday last three rinks of lady curlers came up from Edgmont to try conclusions with the local devotees of the sport and returned to their homes on the following day victorious by an aggregate of 10 points to the good on the three games.

The following were the results of play:

Mrs. C. Church (Wain.) skip 13
Mrs. T. Shaw (Edg.) skip 9
Mrs. R. Stratton (Edg.) skip 17
Mrs. E. Gehring (Wain.) skip 11
Mrs. O. Hannah (Wain.) skip 11
Mrs. D. Sawyer (Edg.) skip 10
At the close of play the visitors were entertained to a little luncheon party by the local ladies.

New Ruler Seeks Divine Guidance

The following is the text of the historic speech which was made by our new King Edward VIII. before the members of the Privy Council immediately after his official accession to the throne of the British Empire.

"Your Royal Highnesses, My Lords and Gentlemen—The irreparable loss which the British Commonwealth of nations has sustained by the death of His Majesty, my beloved father, has devolved upon me the duty of sovereignty.

"I know how much you and all my subjects with, I hope I may say, the whole world feel for me in my sorrow and I am confident in the affectionate sympathy which will be extended to my dear mother in her overpowering grief.

"When my father stood here 26 years ago he declared that one of the objects of his life would be to uphold a constitutional government. In this I am determined to follow in my father's footsteps and to work as he did throughout his life for the happiness and welfare of all classes of my subjects.

"I place my reliance upon the loyalty and affection of my peoples throughout the Empire and upon the wisdom of their parliaments to support me in this heavy task, and I pray that God will guide me to perform it."

Having recovered from a very severe cold, Dr. G. Mayne is now out and around again.

KINGS AND COMMONERS MOURN TOGETHER

BODY OF DEAD MONARCH LAID BESIDE FATHER IN HISTORIC ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL AT WINDSOR CASTLE. ALL CORNERS OF BRITISH EMPIRE REPRESENTED AT LAST RITES. OVER MILLION LOYAL SUBJECTS PAY HOMAGE AS BODY LIES IN STATE

At a private memorial service held in the little humble Sandringham estate church on Wednesday last, the immediate members of His Majesty's family mourned the passing of a beloved husband, father and ruler, before the body was removed to the famous and historic Westminster Hall, in London later in the day.

More than ten thousand men, women and children—the country folk whom the late King George V. knew as friends and neighbors—gathered reverently to bid a last farewell as the cortege left for the city, and to silently salute their new monarch King Edward VIII, who sadly followed a foot from the castle to the private service.

During the period from Wednesday night until Monday evening, an average of 15,000 persons passed every hour by the catafalque upon which the coffin rested beneath the draped royal standard upon which lay the crown and sceptre of state.

On Monday night the remains were taken by special train to Windsor, accompanied by the late king's sons and Mary, the Queen Mother, and on Tuesday with religious solemnity were laid beside the remains of his forebears in the historic St. George's chapel in Windsor Castle.

Every corner of the British Empire was represented at the ceremony, as indeed every race and creed had paid homage at the bier in the capital city, and kings and commoners mingled their tears for the memory of so beloved and glorious a monarch as the late king had proved to be during the whole of his 26-year reign.

IN MEMORIAM

The members of the Wainwright branch Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., join with our comrades throughout the British Empire, and with all Veteran Members of the Empire's Services, in mourning the loss of His Gracious Majesty the late King George V.

Following this portion of the programme of proceedings, representatives from every walk of life, and from each organization—Council, Board of Trade, Masonic, L.O.O.F., L.O.L., B.E.S.L., and Schools, and a host of others—approached a cenotaph at the front of the stage and laid a floral tribute to the memory of their dead sovereign, at this time a special orchestra playing suitable solemn music.

During the religious portion of the programme, familiar and appropriate hymns were sung, and suitable other exercises joined in, led by Rev. C. N. Bateman, R.D., Rev. W. S. Brooker and Pastor F. Bennett. In addition to a full turn-out of war veterans, each fraternal society, each class of the several schools, and all other bodies provided an official representative at the ceremony, these being given special seats.

Rev. T. Edgar Armstrong, B.A., B.D., gave the address of the afternoon, which was listened to with rapt attention.

Very many eyes were wet with tears during the commemoration of the passing of the former ruler of the British Empire, and at the close, after the sounding of "The Last Post," all joined fervently in the singing of "God Save the King" with a silent prayer that King Edward VIII. may long be spared to rule over his people.

HOCKEY TEAM STRENGTHENS PLAY-OFF BIRTH WITH WIN FROM TOFIELD

The Wainwright Hockey Team played two league games during the past week, losing one to Irma on Friday night last and for the first time of the season trimmed Tofield by the overwhelming score of 12-3.

On Friday night the fast-stepping Tofield team, led by a 6-3 win. They were the better team all through, the locals for some unknown reason couldn't seem to get organized. Those figuring in the scoring for the locals were, Walker, Roy, Gaudin, and Woven. On Sunday afternoon the local boys looked as good as they looked (Continued on Page Four)

King and Emperor

KING EDWARD VIII.

First Proclamation by King Edward VIII.

LONDON—King Edward VIII's first proclamation was issued Tuesday to Britain's armed forces. The proclamation, addressed to the secretary for war, Lord Halifax, for an immediate broadcast to the armed forces throughout the Empire, said:

"I desire on my accession to the throne to express my thanks to the army for its devoted services to my beloved father. I recall with gratitude the noble response which the army made during the Great War to his proud confidence in its loyalty, valor and steadfastness. Its welfare was ever in his thoughts."

"My own association with the army is now of long standing. I look back to my service as a young officer in the Great War as one of the most valuable experiences in my life. It gave me the opportunity and the privilege of comradeship with soldiers drawn from the United Kingdom, from the dominions of India and the colonies."

"I learned to understand and appreciate those essential characteristics which united them in the sternest crisis of our history—the same fervent attachment to the Crown, the same good humor and endurance in adversity and the same determination to uphold the tradition of chivalry and courage which are our common inheritance."

"In the happier days of peace I have been able to see by personal visits the military forces of the Crown both at home and abroad and everywhere I noted with pride the same gallant bearing which distinguished those forces in the field. I shall be strengthened in the discharge of the great responsibilities which lie before me by the confidence with which I know I can rely on the unwavering allegiance of all ranks of the military forces of the Crown throughout the Empire."

Similar messages also were sent to the navy and the Royal Air Force.

Besom and Stane Contest This Week

Around two dozen rinks of curlers are starting today (Wednesday) at the local rink for Wainwright's 26th annual bonspiel and according to accounts this promises to be the best yet.

About one-half the contestants will be truly local teams, while the balance will be made up from entries covering a big area, all of whom are anxious to win the splendid array of prizes which have been hung up for this event which will last for the balance of the week.

The special bonspiel committee comprising Messrs. Stuart, Pisk and Schmitt, who have been as busy as bees for the past several weeks on the affair, have spared no effort to make this a real success, and Mr. Bob Dunsmore will start good and early today in making the draws and getting everyone off to a good start.

The full list of entries and the prize list will appear next week. So sloop 'er up!

LOCAL NOTES

Special dedicatory services were held at all the church services on Sunday last in reverence to the memory of the late King George V. The music and topics were appropriate to the occasion.

A disease which seems to be a form of 'flu is attacking quite a number in the district. It appears to attack those of mature years, and is accompanied by a cough. It can easily develop into pneumonia and lasts two or three weeks.

King Edward Coins Will Issue Later

OTTAWA—King George coins will continue to be turned out by the Royal Canadian mint, for King George reigned in 1936 and the new coins bear that date. It takes considerable time to make new dies so that it will not be until late in the year that Canadian coins with King Edward VIII will be issued. Under the United Kingdom the King's portrait on coins always bears the crown.

The postage stamps for the next six months have already been printed and unless some special issue is put out for a special occasion the King's portrait will continue on the three-cent stamp.

PENSIONS . . . all hands
The people of the United States seem to me to have been infected with the pension-craze as I have not seen them since the 1890's. Even then, nobody thought of pensions for anybody but veterans of the Civil War. Now the American Legion comes out for pensions for soldiers' widows and the Veterans of Foreign Wars is advocating pensions for all veterans, and on top of that, Dr. Townsend and his followers would pension everybody over 60 years old, while almost every class of public servant, from school teachers and policemen to Governors, are nowadays being pensioned at public expense.

It is an understandable human desire to live comfortably in old age without working. But I have never been able to convince myself that it is society's duty to provide anything beyond decent subsistence for the indigent aged.

THRIFT . . . best pensions
I have not seen in any of the projects for supporting old people at public expense anything that does as much for them as every man can do for himself, if he will. Even the contributory old age benefit plan of the Social Security Act does not provide for as large old age annuities as the ordinary man could buy for himself from any insurance company, if he would pay out of his wages the same percentage that the Government now proposes to take from him in old age taxes.

I am reminded of Bob Davidson, an Albany newspaper man, who died only a few years ago. Bob never earned more than $28 a week in his life, but when he died, after 40 years of work, he left an estate of $100,000. He had the qualities of thrift and self-denial, which are so repugnant to the folk who are now loudly demanding old age pensions which they have done nothing to earn.

CONSTITUTION . . . change
The latest decisions of the Supreme Court holdings that Congress has exceeded its delegated powers in undertaking to regulate business and agriculture have revived talk of amending the Constitution. Half a dozen amendments have been proposed to give the Federal Government broader powers than it has yet been granted by the states.

No good American can quarrel with the idea of amending the Constitution. We have done it a good many times and doubtless will do it many more times in the future. The Constitution itself provides three

CANADA'S CHRISTMAS TREE
CROP 4,000,000 ANNUALLY

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—To decorate homes and verandahs in the United States during the recent Christmas season nearly four million evergreen trees were shipped from Canada. Canadian homes used from half a million to a million trees from the woodlands of the nine provinces.

Thus the Christmas tree as a commercial article has attained some importance. Its use has increased rapidly under the modern manner of setting up trees on the verandahs and lawns of dwellings, stringing them with ornamental electric lights.

In Eastern Canada the favourite Christmas tree is the young fir or spruce about ten feet in height. British Columbia prefers the Douglas fir. Others used are the balsam fir, the cedar, hemlock, juniper and pine.

The Dominion Government's Forestry Branch has pointed out that the cutting of these millions of young trees has but a negligible place in the Canadian forest economy. Many are taken from fields where they are a handicap to agriculture; others from timber land which has to be thinned for commercial exploitation.

An electric eye to protect sleep walkers is being manufactured by a British firm.

South America has a population of 77,000,000.

WHERE AMERICA STANDS

These are exciting days. Not in many years have the minds and tongues of so many been busy in the consideration and discussion of public affairs. And at no time in recent history have there been such wide divergences of opinion as to what is the best course to pursue.

We hear public men and party measures both fulsomely praised beyond their deserts and denounced in terms of unparaphrased criticism. A great deal of the radio and in face-to-face controversies is the product of emotion rather than of reason; that is always the case when public opinion is aroused. But it would be beyond the facts to conclude that the sober processes of the products of emotional reactions.

In the long run the underlying sound common sense of the people always decides the important issues in a country like ours. But we arrive at conclusions through the whole-some processes of debate and discussion, however emotional.

There are no signs on the horizon to justify the alarm which is expressed in many quarters. Those who feel that we are on the verge of a revolution, that there is grave danger that either Communism on one hand or Fascism on the other may supplant our traditional and well-tried system of representative government have not learned the lessons of history. We are not going to sacrifice our liberties or imperil our prosperity by yielding to the passions and emotions of the moment.

PROPAGANDA

We hear more and more about "propaganda." The word has come to have a sinister implication. It is loosely applied to any effort of any kind to influence public opinion. To those who don't agree with the point of view of the propagandist, his efforts are vicious and should be suppressed. To all those who do agree with his opinion, he is a praiseworthy apostle of a highly laudable doctrine.

There never has been a time when individuals, groups and organizations holding certain things to be true will not attempt to convince others of their truth. The very word "propaganda" was first used to describe the efforts of the Christian church to spread that is to propagate the doctrines of Christianity. Doubtless there are atheists and others who consider even that noble purpose an entirely vicious one. And beyond doubt, a great deal of propaganda has been carried on in recent years for entirely selfish and often sordid purposes.

Propaganda in the real sense of the word is an effort to educate. The desire of anyone to convert others to his way of thinking. The real quarrel with propaganda arises from the subtle and underhand methods which are too often used. Propaganda conducted in the open, with the motives and purposes behind it clearly disclosed is a sound and legitimate method. It is only when the identity and motives of the propagandists are concealed that it becomes dangerous.

About $300,000 worth of buggy whips are being produced annually even today.

In The Mail Bag

We are not responsible for opinions expressed by our correspondents.

The Editor,
Dear Sir—The period of mourning for our late King has strikingly emphasized a lack of knowledge of the proper manner for flying our flag—especially in the position for mourning.

There is possibly no more public way of displaying a lack of knowledge of proper form than to fly a flag incorrectly. And it appeals to the writer as a worth while effort on the part of some public enterprise to promote a little general knowledge on this subject for the benefit of our citizens. Such an effort should at least result in a more decorous appearance of our streets and buildings at the next period of public mourning.

Trusting some person with the necessary information available may be good enough to act on the suggestion.

PRO PATRIA.

The Editor,
Dear Sir—A mass meeting of farmers from Browning, Policy and McCafferty districts met in McCafferty Hall to discuss their problems.

Many resolutions were submitted and the following were passed: No. 1 protesting against the weakening of the present provincial protective legislation for farmers. No. 2 protested against the twelve month car license. No. 3 requested the Federal Government to carry out the agreement made between the former Wheat Board, the Wheat Pool and payment on the 1930 crop. No. 4 asked that as the present provincial government was elected on a promise of paying a dividend of $25 per month to every man and woman, that the Farmers' Protective Legislation should be kept in force until the above monthly dividend is paid regularly. No. 5 urged for the continuation of the Highways eastward from Wainwright and Hardisty to the boundary, same to be built up to standard. No. 6 objected to the suggested cancellation of refund to farmers on gasoline and fuel oil used in their tractors. No. 7 asked the Provincial Government to re-appoint a similar representation on the Debt Adjustment Board as existed prior to the change of Government, that is two farmer representatives and one judge. No. 8 objected to the suggested increase in taxation until the people have a greater purchasing power and No. 9 advocated the various school districts study the principle of larger school areas, which has been suggested.

The above resolutions were forwarded to the Federal and Provincial Governments as the subjects pertained thereto.

W. T. HAYS, Secretary.

CAR LICENSE YEAR

The Editor:
Sir—The announced change in the car license year, which is acclaimed so joyfully by the A.M.A., is but one more knock for the farmers of north and central Alberta, where, on account of snow-blocked roads, we can only run our cars, on an average about eight months in the year. In 1935 it was six months, but we were able to take advantage of the 20 cent discount when the roads did not open up until near the end of April. Under the new regulations this will not be possible, because the period in which we cannot run our cars will come at the end of the car license year.

Surely the injustice is apparent to everyone, of charging those of us who can only run our cars part of the year the full year's license, while at the same time we are taxed to keep open the main highways for the city motorists, and such others as are in a position to take advantage of the government services. Incidentally, these are the ones who will get the benefit of the three months' license-free motoring in 1937.

The farmers who helped to vote out a government which had a little regard for our interests, for a will-o'-the-wisp in the form of "basic dividends" and other impossible promises, will doubtless regret their mistake.

NORTHERN FARMER

CAR LICENSE YEAR

The Editor—
Sir—If reports in the press are correct, the A.M.A. are coming to us in a different form than that which Mr. Aberhart and his lieutenants preached the length and breadth of the province prior to the election last summer. We are now to pay an annual driver's license of $1.00; also the car license year is to be changed to March 31st, possibly the latter at the request of the A.M.A. But why not take all the people of the province into consideration. They helped to elect Mr. Aberhart to power possibly more so than the A.M.A. This organization repeatedly requested the former government of the province to change the car license year, but they took all people into consideration and could not see that it was fair.

This yearly driver's license and the change in the car license year is going to cost the car owners and drivers about $400,000 more than it did last year. I believe it is safe to say that one-third of the car owners of this province are never on the road from November until the next April owing to the impassable condition of the roads. This year is a good example. Now why should they be compelled to pay a full year's license for seven months' driving. If the people who get the benefit of snow-plowed roads want to drive their cars in the winter then let them pay for it. But don't charge the people who cannot use their cars in winter to make roads for those who can—Yours,
Edgerton C. McPEAK.

RETAIL MERCHANTS ASSOC. CONVENTION

in the Memorial Hall and luncheon and dinner meetings in the Macdonald hotel.

Subjects expected to rivet the attention of all delegates on the convention floor include: 1. Codes proposed for the retail trade by the Aberhart government; 2. The Bennett price-spread reforms now before the Supreme Court of Canada; 3. A new school of thought on methods of distribution sponsored by forward groups of eastern economists. Wednesday, the last day of the convention, the Association will invite all members of the Aberhart cabinet to attend a wind-up banquet in the Macdonald hotel.

TO RE-ORGANIZE PROV. SCHOOL COURSE

Revision of the Alberta school curriculum, now under way and which may be implemented next autumn, is designed to give a thoroughly modern curriculum, suited to present-day needs. Secretary G. Fred McCall, deputy minister of education, in discussing plans of the committee.

Three main objectives have been kept in view, he said: The course for the elementary school must be primarily adapted to the needs of the rural school. In later years the program must be flexible enough to meet equally well the needs of all the young people now thronging the secondary schools, the young man destined for life in the workshop, garage, grocery store or on the farm, as well as the one destined for the university and the learned profession.

Here is how it is expected to work out: The traditional 12-year school course has been reorganized into four divisions. Divisions one and two (grades I-VI) constitute the elementary school. Then comes the intermediate school of three years and a high school of three years. Progress will be marked by stages not by years.

A child by this division may be reading in stage two but be in stage four for his writing and stage six in numbers.

FARMERS SEEKING LAW CONTINUANCE

Strong fears that organized efforts might be made to bring pressure upon both the Alberta and Dominion governments to discontinue the adjustment legislation, expressed at the annual United Farmers' of Alberta convention, created a sensation among delegates and produced a lively, provocative discussion that came near fever-heat on occasions.

The discussion, which was eventually adjourned without decision, arose over a resolution advocating that the present debt adjustment legislation be continued to protect the urban and rural dwellers and that organized farmers be given representation on the debt adjustment board.

Supporters of the resolution declared it called only for debtors organizing to obtain legal protection to maintain their rights. The convention decided to petition the Dominion government to continue the legislation now in force "to the end that all the burden of defaulted values shall not be borne by agriculture."

PROVINCIAL MACE MUST BE ALTERED

Alteration in the mace of the provincial legislative chamber—carried by the Sergeant-at-Arms when he presides in Mr. Speaker, and which is displayed on the "table" of the house when it is in session—is being made in conformance with the ascension to the throne of His Majesty King Edward VIII.

The initials "E.R." appearing on the mace—standing for Georgius Rex—will be changed to "E.R." for Edwardus Rex.

The same mace once before bore the letters "E.R." for King Edward VII from 1901 to 1910.

The portrait of King George hanging in the legislative chamber is heavily draped in black and will remain so while the house is in session. A large wreath has been placed upon it.

There will be no alteration in the provincial proclamation calling the Alberta legislature on Feb. 6th.

In the death of King George all the world mourns the loss of a good king and good man, but we have the great consolation of knowing that in the Prince of Wales (now the King) who takes King George's place, we have as fine a young man as God ever put breath into, but he needs the help and loyalty of every one of his subjects, humble and exalted, in his arduous task, the task of ruling an empire. He will be a momentous reign.

We extend our sympathy to Mr. J. Muir in his recent sad bereavement.

PROMENADE DECK

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

"Well, I'm doing it. I'm painting a little, because I like to pass the time that way."

Macduff was charmed with Angela's way of talking. He had never heard her talk like that before. Here was a woman who might be worth her salt. She chatted about the Ganges, and gave him a lively picture of her impressions that morning. Yes, she was an artist. He could tell that from her choice of words.

When Macduff was writing he bothered little with externals, going in for sombre, philosophical stuff that some people seemed to like. It surprised him to see India through the sparkling eyes of an intelligent woman. Soon he was talking himself, and marvelling at his own freedom. For half an hour his companion sat back, entranced and amused, while he talked. He lit a cigarette and watched him from under the brim of her hat. It must be the cocktails. He was off like an orator. There was nothing to do but listen, now that the floodgates were open. But would he ever come to the end of his soliloquy? Was he talking sense or nonsense? Angela realized that the man was simply unused to voicing his thoughts, although verbose, no doubt on paper. She had heard vaguely of his books, but had never read anything that he had written. After this, she would try to get hold of them and see what they were like.

The other people in the room who knew them were watching their table with surprise.

"Ye Gods!" said Johnny to Clare. "Watch Macduff talking to Mrs. Wynant."

"It's a miracle. I'd like to know what he's saying. It would be Mrs. Wynant who would get him to talk."

"Won't you come with me to the river, Mr. Macduff?" Angela was saying, at the first break in their conversation. "I can't keep away. It's the most beautiful canvas I've ever seen in my life and I'm rather keen about masses of people."

"That's just where you're different from me," said Macduff, weighing his decision on whether to go with Angela or stay for a liquor. "No, I won't. There's nothing I dislike more than to be seen in my life and I find it depressing to look at such thousands mucking together."

They went out to the veranda and he ordered liquors. Angela watched him, wondering if perfect frankness were not the cue in handling Macduff. She leaned towards him. "You and reserve.

"Do you live in New York, Mr. Macduff?"

"Yes. Have you ever been there?"

"Five years ago I visited it for a few weeks. I love it, the excitement, the tearing hurry, the air—such air! But to live in it—how does one manage that?"

"My life is as quiet and slow as if I lived on the tip of end of Cornwall."

"I don't see how you can dwell among such glorious skyscrapers and feel that life is quiet and slow. Life can't be slow in a soaring city. I think I should live on wings if New York were my home."

"It's all to do, the things people think of New York. It's the best possible city for work, because it's one of the few places in the world where you are left alone if you want to be. I can work better there than anywhere under the sun."

"Perhaps that's why American women accomplish so much. I admire them greatly."

"Do you?"

"Yes. Don't you?" Her voice expressed surprise.

"No. They're scatterbrains—freakish creatures. They're also shockingly vain—spending, spending, everything for clothes and appearances."

"But how stunning they look!"

"Like so many dolls in a window! The same eyes, the same lift to their chin, the same way of wearing their clothes, and the same ankles."

"But I can't imagine a race of women with better ankles! American women always surprise me, and with the buoyancy of their spirit. They have such grace—perhaps because they're free and have economic independence. They're the only women who walk with hope and assurance."

"I don't approve of them at all!"

"Oh dear! What a pity! If I were a man and lived in America, I should admire them very much and fall in love with any number of them. They're intelligent, too. But I see it's a hopeless argument."

Macduff had lost the thread of the conversation, and seemed to be stumbling towards an important conclusion of his own. He was standing, looking down at her with an air of gloom. Angela gazed at him softly and he shifted his weight.

They went out on the veranda.

are rather a myth on the boat," she laughed, "the man who must not be spoken to."

A deep roll of laughter shot surprisingly from his throat. "It's not on the boat alone—the way I live. I find that human contacts interfere with one's work and one's life."

"Then I can't understand why you travel around the world on a cruising boat. To escape from people on the Marenia is like trying to dodge bees in a hive."

"I came on a cruising boat because it takes me to out-of-the-way ports I'd never have been able to get to by any other means. Moreover, I've found all the isolation that I would get at home—at the least possible expense," Macduff finished calmly.

Angela sighed and swung her parasol. "Sometimes I think one would be happier alone, in a world of one's own. The constant give and take of social relations wear one down."

Macduff's face was loosening in amiable lines, and she thought she detected a twinkle through his rimless spectacles. Or was it just the sun on the lens?

"I'm thinking that you're not very happy," he told her, surprisingly.

"Happy enough, Mr. Macduff, but wandering in my thoughts. To tell you the truth, they're in England with my husband and my home."

"Tell me about your home."

"I've never been able to conjure it up for anyone else, although it's so vivid in my own mind. It's a rambling house with gables, frightfully ancient, with bits that have been added on from time to time. The ceilings are low and beamed, and the dormer windows are tucked in odd places under the eaves. It's filled with pictures, ancient and modern, and my dog Jock patters all over it like a preening Turk."

Angela stopped suddenly thinking that she had been lacking in tact

and reserve.

"Do you live in New York, Mr. Macduff?"

"Yes. Have you ever been there?"

"Five years ago I visited it for a few weeks. I love it, the excitement, the tearing hurry, the air—such air! But to live in it—how does one manage that?"

Macduff had lost the thread of the conversation, and seemed to be stumbling towards an important conclusion of his own. He was standing, looking down at her with an air of gloom. Angela gazed at him softly and he shifted his weight.

But it was Clare who went over to speak to him. He helped out of the water. "Good stuff, Patty," which word Johnny as she passed him on her way to the dressing-room "You and I'll have a race pretty soon."

Patty laughed in her throat, tossed her cap and strode on. She felt robust and happy, as if a dark shadow that had been creeping up on her for weeks had taken to its heels.

Clare was also in gay spirits, a step from Peter's side. She had not cared whether she won or lost, across did nothing but give one a crow's feet.

"Well, that's over," she said. "Patty's like the wind, I admire her form in the water."

"You were quite worth watching, too," Peter's voice was warm, and his glance passed over her like a searching flame.

"Why didn't you compete, Mrs. Rumford?"

"Oh, I'm a drone," laughed Jenny. "She's a lorette who looks for rocks to sit on in the sun while she combs her hair," said Peter.

Was Jenny dreaming, or did she catch a look of understanding, the sudden raising of a curtain, between those two? Her heart missed a beat. No, that was absurd! Day-dreams! Clare and Peter had scarcely spoken to each other since they'd come on the boat, except for their talk in the lounge at Bombay. They all moved out to the deck to dry themselves.

"Isn't the sea strange today?" Jenny murmured, after a long silence. "This is the first time since we left the Mediterranean that I've seen the water crumpled, or foam breaking on the waves."

Johnny's heart was pounding. Clare was looking at him. He was lost. He did not know. Patty was magnificent. He liked the clean sweep of her strokes. He remembered his college days, and his heart went out to Patty. He knew that she would root for him, but Clare evicted him.

But this was Patty's race. She must win! Johnny's throat was soapy, as it used to be when he tackled at football.

Patty won, and as she touched the end of the swimming-pool, he heard her on a shout of jubilation. Angela felt his suppressed excitement and was suddenly sure of something that had puzzled her for weeks.

Patty was, in a striking green suit.

The sun was in his eyes, the garden was fragrant with blooms, the Union Jacks were still pleasantly warm in his stomach. He rubbed the back of his head meditatively and could not imagine why his feet were moving toward the river. What was the sense of going to the Ganges with a chance travelling acquaintance?

"How delightful of you to come with me to the river, Mr. Macduff," Angela's voice was gay and pleasant as she saw him falling into step. Her companion grunted and pulled on his pipe.

"We'll ride to Tiger Hill together to see the dawn over Mount Everest when we reach Darjeeling," he announced, amazed at his own desire to establish a deeper contact with the woman at his side.

"That will be splendid," she told him.

The afternoon sun fell in slanting rays over the Indian Ocean, shedding a flutter of gold on water that heaved in a darkening swell. The aquatic sports were about to begin in the swimming pool. Patty, brimful of energy, was diving repeatedly from the highest springboard.

"She was born to live in a swimming-suit," Jenny said, admiringly.

"A genuine water-nymph!" Peter remarked, always appreciative of the manifestations of physical perfection.

Jenny saw that Clare and Patty were both in the race. It would be interesting to watch the two of them together, for they were evenly matched, despite the difference in their ages.

Clare was a gifted swimmer, and her speed and form were equal to the best that girls half her age could do. No woman on the boat could compete with her except Patty. John Foster was good, but she slept all day and took most of her swims late at night.

Clare was in tangerine, a brilliant flash in the clear water of the tank. It suited her dusky skin. Patty was in a striking green suit.

The white blur and the contestants were off, with orange and green in the lead. Clare tore through the water like a goldfish, using the long Australian crawl. Patty made better time with the American crawl.

Johnny was perched in a corner close to Angela. His face was set in anxious frowns, for he felt that the race had something to do with him. Patty won the first heat; Clare the second; they seemed to be marvellously paired. Angela sat silent, thinking of Johnny and wondering who he wanted to win.

Clare was leading now, but Patty was creeping up. Every stroke brought her nearer to a fleet figure in orange. Patty was breathing easily and turning in the water with each long stroke.

Johnny's heart was pounding. Clare was looking at him. He was lost. He did not know. Patty was magnificent. He liked the clean sweep of her strokes. He remembered his college days, and his heart went out to Patty. He knew that she would root for him, but Clare evicted him.

Hints for the Household

Conducted By Betty Barclay

TWO BUDGET DISHES

The first month of the year often puts a strain on the family purse, and for that reason the clever housewife tries to find new dishes which are both thrifty and delicious. Here are two which will satisfy hearty winter appetites now and long after the bills have been paid and forgotten.

HEAVENLY HASH

2 cups rice, cooked
½ cup confectioners' sugar
1 cup raisins, diced
1 cup Jell's GOOD LUCK
Evaporated Milk, whipped
24 marshmallows, cut in small pieces
½ cup nuts, chopped
6 maraschino cherries

Chill all ingredients thoroughly and combine in the order listed. Pile into sherbet glasses. Garnish with maraschino cherries.

STUFFED PEPPERS

6 large green peppers
2 cups corn, whole or fresh
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
6 teaspoons Jell's Good Luck Margarine, melted

Wash green peppers, cut off the tops at the stem and remove the seeds. Combine remaining ingredients, blend and use as the stuffing for peppers. Arrange peppers upright in uncovered casserole. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for one hour. Serves 6.

MALTED MILKS FOR MODERN MEALS

Malted milk has become so great a national favorite at lunch counters and for home refreshment that sometimes the housewife forgets the rich, delicious "malty" flavor also helps in preparing tasty and economical dishes. Here are two ways to use malted milk in meal planning.

Chocolate Malted Milk Cake

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
½ cup cocoa
½ cup chocolate malted milk
2 cups flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sweetened condensed milk
1 cup water

No one was paying any attention to what she said.

"This is no place to dry," said Clare, shivering with cold. "It's too late. The sun's gone down."

Jenny was lost in her thoughts, watching the dying sun in a semi-trance. She would not go below while the sun lasted. The others had already gone; she had not noticed them leaving her.

She went down to B deck and along the corridor. Her glance swept by chance towards an alleyway, and her hand went up to her mouth to stop the exclamation that sprang to her lips.

Cream butter until light and fluffy. Add sugar gradually, beating well. Add egg yolks and beat again. Add cocoa and chocolate malted milk which have been blended together. Stir flour once, add baking powder and salt and stir again. Add dry ingredients alternately with sweetened condensed milk and water, to butter mixture. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Bake in 3 (8-inch) layer cake pans in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 15 minutes.

Malted Tomato Soup
Mix in 1 cup 1 tablespoonful malted milk with enough hot water to make a smooth paste. Fill cup with hot tomato bouillon. Season with salt and dash of paprika. Also good in oyster or clam broth.

CANADA'S SURPLUS WHEAT

NORMAL BY AUGUST

WINNIPEG.—It is the opinion of Canadian wheat traders that when present crop yields ends the first of next August the carry-over of Canadian wheat will not be more than about 50,000,000 bushels, which is considered about normal.

This computation is on the basis of 267,000,000 bushels as the Canadian surplus supply in mid-December, an allowance of 115,000,000 bushels for home consumption and seed, and export clearances of four million bushels a week to the end of July.

Drought, grasshoppers, rust and frost have reduced world wheat stocks until the Canadian surplus is in demand to satisfy world markets.

The total output of concentrated milk products in Canada for the eleven months of 1935 ended November amounted to 99,570,173 pounds, an increase of 10,577,631 pounds, or 12 per cent over the corresponding period of 1934.

The world has changed more in the last 150 years than in the previous 4,000 years.—Bertrand Russell.

To the Hospital Board,
Wainwright Municipal Hospital,
Wainwright, Alberta.

Re: Audit for year 1935

Gentlemen:

We have audited the books of the Wainwright Municipal Hospital, District No. 17, for the year ended December 31, 1935, and we submit herewith:

Balance Sheet as at December 31, 1935.
Revenue Account for the year 1935.
Cash Statement for the year 1935.
Schedules for Revenue and Cash Statements.
Schedule of Contributing Municipalities.

We report as follows:

All receipts as shown were deposited in the bank and all payments were made by cheque.

During the year a committee of the Board went over the outstanding accounts and recommended that $9189.23, listed as "C" and "D" accounts, be written off as uncollectable. The reserve for Bad Debts was $7200.00 and this meant that $1989.23 excess was to be written off Surplus account. The reserve was then raised to $5000.00 by charging an additional $2000.00 to Surplus and $5000.00 to the current year's revenue. When the Secretary took off his list of outstanding accounts his list of accounts not written off was $10817.33. This was in excess of the controlling ledger figure by $1403.98, so that the controlling ledger figure was raised by this amount and the Reserve for Bad Debts was increased by a corresponding figure to $6403.98. The Secretary has the accounts receivable listed in the records and will see that careful check is made of collections and charges thereon.

The Municipal District of Vale had an adjustment made in the amount owing for 1929 and have paid up the balance. M.D. Vale still owes $46.98 on the 1931 requisition. This should be cleared up. The Municipal District of Battle River still owes for 1929 and 1931 requisitions. We are informed that application is to be made by M.D. Battle River to have a similar settlement as that accorded to M.D. Vale. All 1935 requisitions were paid in full. M. D. Gilt Edge paid $10.00 in excess of their requisition. The cash balance has increased from $3164.37 to $4069.78. Expenses were slightly higher than last year except maintenance, which was considerably reduced.

The revenue account shows a slight surplus for the year after providing for Depreciation of $1684.56 and Reserve for Bad Debts of $3000.00.

We hereby certify that the Balance Sheet, herewith, is properly drawn up so as to show up a correct view of the affairs of the Wainwright Municipal Hospital, District No. 17, as at December 31, 1935, according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us, and as shown by the records of the Hospital. Respectfully submitted,

CAREFUL TESTS OF ALL DRIVERS URGED

Examinations of all operators of motor vehicles was urged when a delegation of representatives from railwaymen's unions appeared before the Provincial Government on January 15th.

The need of uniform traffic regulations with all Canadian provinces also was emphasized by the delegation, says "Motordom."

Dealing with highway traffic, the delegation asked: "With a view to uniformity as far as practicable and a higher standard of qualification for operators, we urge that measures be taken to provide:

(a) "Uniform traffic regulations with all provinces in Canada, and
(b) "That all operators of motor vehicles be required to pass a qualifying examination as to visual acuity, color, perception and hearing."

"Every day experience during the touring season is demonstrating that safety on the highways cannot be assured unless and until all motor vehicle operators possess appropriate qualifications and adhere more closely to traffic rules and regulations."

"The appalling record of auto accidents in 1934, showing 1108 persons killed and 17,988 injured, is a challenge to our renewed collective effort for conservation of human life."

Highway crossing protection also was urged by the delegation whose representation in this regard follows: "Pending the complete elimination of level crossings with the railway, we strongly urge that adequate protection should be provided by warning signals or an effective stop law; also, that the observance of warning signals be rigidly enforced under heavy penalty. We further urge a positive stop law be enacted at the first session of the legislature to cover all vehicles engaged in the transportation of gasoline or other inflammable or explosive merchandise."

TREE PLANTING ON PRAIRIE

FARMS

The work being carried on by the Tree Planting Division at the Forest Nursery Station of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at Indian Head has made possible the beautifying of thousands of western Canadian farm homes, as well as providing the shelter which is so necessary on the prairie. Many outstanding gardens have been made possible only by the sheltering effects of belts of trees which also store up moisture in the soil in the form of snow drifts and encourage all kinds of wild life. A well-sheltered farmstead is a much more comfortable place for stock to winter and in which to do the chores, the results obtained with trees are directly proportional to the amount of care given them, and by proper cultivation the effects of even drought and winter killing can largely be overcome.

The person who makes a hobby of growing and caring for trees generally meets with success in his efforts and the care given the trees instead of being regarded as work, is really a pleasure. The choice of a hobby on western farms is somewhat limited, and one which would have a practical as well as an aesthetic value should find wide favour. There are many who have had this idea for years and where this has been so, beautiful surroundings have resulted, even in the most unlikely places. By altering one's outlook on life, work becomes a pleasure and the results obtained are more pleasant than in which to live.

A number of farmers are inclined to think that they have not the time for this kind of work although they realize the many advantages and will drive for miles to a picnic where some neighbors have well cared for trees. Such places are gathering spots for the whole community. Several farmers have suggested that they would consider engaging some elderly person interested in trees, who would do nothing else but care for them in return for his board and a small allowance. This suggestion might solve difficulties for both parties.

This Week in Washington

The question everybody in Washington is asking everybody else is: "What sort of a substitute for AAA is the Administration going to turn out?"

Nobody knows the exact answer as yet, but a good many straws in the wind give some indications of what is being planned. The first straw was President Roosevelt's statement that he was not in favor of an export bounty plan, which would, as he put it, amount to making a present to Europe of the fertility of our soil. In other words, what is being sought for is a method of crop control based upon the necessity of land conservation.

The representatives of the farm organizations who were summoned to meet in Washington are united on the plan that the so-called marginal lands should be withdrawn from commercial production, through rental at equitable rates, of such land as may be necessary to promote conservation of soil fertility and to bring about a balance of domestic production at profitable prices.

Maybe Domestic Allotments Instead of export bounties, it is regarded as probable that the Administration will propose a domestic allotment system, based on bounties to farmers on the proportion of their crops consumed at home. This has been considered by Congress many times in the past but never as part of a comprehensive nation-wide plan.

The Supreme Court's decision in the AAA case did not negative processing taxes as such, but only the allotment of processing funds to a special class or group. It is held that processing taxes are entirely within the power of Congress, provided the money so collected goes from general revenues, funds for the payment of bounties to farmers for soil conservation and other purposes.

This idea of soil conservation has been one of President Roosevelt's pets for a long time. On October 25 he indicated it as the basis of any long-term and permanent agricultural conservation program, and he pointed out that benefits could be made to encourage individual farmers to adopt sound farm management.

Revenues Wanted

The killing off of the processing taxes knocked a big hole in the Treasury budget estimates. These had been counted on for more than $500,000,000 of revenue. It looks as though the Government would have to pay at least half that amount to farmers under existing contracts, so some new ways must be found to raise money for this purpose. Also to pay the bonus. Under any of the bonus plans that are now under consideration at least a billion dollars of cash will be required.

MONEY TALKS

—But you must tell it what to say!

Let's suppose that the dollars you spend were suddenly given minds of their own—and the job of deciding what to buy for you.

They'd have to learn their way around in a hurry. And one of the first things they'd do would be to study the newspapers—every advertisement that discusses something you'd be needing, or wanting. They'd get the latest facts on automatic refrigerators and sport shoes and tea and motor oil and all the rest. They'd make a business of knowing what, when and where to buy.

Are you less careful and less constant in your ad-reading than you should be? Do you have to depend on other people for facts that are clearly stated in the advertising pages of this newspaper?

Read advertising thoughtfully, consider all the points you find there on their merits. Find out in advance exactly what things will best serve your needs—and why. After all, that's the only way to get your money's worth every time.

The real reason for advertising is not to help some one sell something, but to help you buy what you want.

The world-wide radio broadcast which lasted from 2.30 to 7.30 a.m., and gave the whole of the funeral march and services direct from London, and Windsor during the last rites for King George V., came over the ether in splendid shape locally. Every word uttered of the solemn rites was plainly and distinctly heard, even to the tramp of the marching feet plied with the dirge rung on the bells of Westminster Abbey, the tolling of "Big Ben" and the "minute guns" at Hyde Park. The music of the service in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, was magnificently solemn and inspiring.

Claudette Colbert
Stars at the Elite

Coming to the theatre on Monday and Tuesday, February 3rd and 4th, is a picture right full of worthwhile entertainment.

"The Gilded Lily" is a wholesome story, treated somewhat differently. Its hilarity is the result of well applied honey-mockum. It is an up-to-date yarn of young love packed with romance and laughter and bubbling over with life and joy.

The time is today and the principal locales are New York and London. Claudette Colbert takes the lead as a stenographer who dreams fabulous dreams of a grand and thrilling romance. Her pal is Fred MacMurray, a newspaper man. Their delights and pleasures are those of workaday people—Fifth Avenue bus rides, eating popcorn during lull hours on the famous Library steps, hectic excursions to Coney Island, and so on.

Then one day she meets the idol of her dreams—Ray Milland, incarnation of British nobility. Gay as their romance is, it turns semi-tragic for her as Milland just fades out of the picture.

Through a series of newspaper articles and much to the fear and amazement of the demure stenographer, MacMurray transforms her into a glamorous creature of Mazda Lane, a princess of Broadway night clubs, the toast and boast of New York. Then comes a trip to London and the spark of love again flames as she once more meets her prince charming.

See this picture which shows next Monday and Tuesday and find out how Miss Colbert overcomes her grief when her castles in the air crash for the second time.

We are glad to note that Mrs. J. Sweeney who has been on the sick list for the past week is improving now.

The boys of the Tuxis class of the United church spent a pleasant evening on Thursday last enjoying a sleighing party and supper which followed.

Dr. and Mrs. Folkens of Chauvin, were in town over the week-end, visiting their daughter Mrs. J. A. Mackenzie. We are glad to learn, too, that Mr. Mackenzie is recovering nicely from his sick spell.

Mr. Russell Bailey of Heath is a patient at the hospital for medical treatment.
